

ACCESS TO RESEARCH

Searching Journal Articles

You can search using keywords, author names, article & journal titles. However, navigating your search results can be complex so we have some tips to get you started!

TIP
01

Use quotation marks

Entering phrases within quotation marks is a good way to improve & narrow down your search results. For example, "Richard III".

TIP
02

Refine your results

Use the tools on the left of your results, to refine your search by: content type, publication date, subject terms, language & discipline.

TIP
03

Related topics

To the right of your search results, you'll find a list of related topics. For example, searching "Richard III" you may see the related topic; 'House of Plantagenet'.

Searching academic journals can be daunting if you're not used to it, but don't worry, keep practising & you'll soon be searching confidently!
